

2013 North American Society for Sport Management Conference (NASSM 2013)

styles of martial arts. The study supported conceptual framework in which the individuals participated in various forms of sports could be motivated by discrepant factors and affected by their characteristics.