Aspirations Through Association: Using Athletics to Enhance Institutional Prestige

Rhema Fuller, The University of Memphis
Brennan Berg, The University of Memphis
Michael Hutchinson, The University of Memphis

Teaching & Learning Fair - Case Studies (College Sport)
Teaching & Learning Fair Presentation
Abstract 2017-128
Friday, June 2, 2017
10:15 AM
Room: Sopris

This case study presents how athletics is used to bolster an institution’s prestige. An athletics director is tasked with determining if his institution should pursue membership in a different athletic association. This case study is designed to encapsulate the tension sport managers face as they encounter complex decisions.