Explaining Social and Cultural Capital with a Card Game Analogy

Dominique Kropp, University of Kansas

Teaching & Learning Fair - Other (Other)
Teaching & Learning Fair Presentation
Abstract 2018-170
Friday, June 8, 2018, 10:25 AM, Room: Halifax

This presentation will incorporate a card game analogy coined by Bourdieu and described by Winkle-Wagner (2010) to help students better understand the impact of social and cultural capital, particularly when applying the terms to sport. This material can be most helpful to instructors of sociology of sport.